Banking on the strength of this particular property development surrounded by natural sceneries in the leisurely valley town of Ipoh, the designers have thoughtfully created an interior design for this property show unit that is befitting of its immediate neighbourhood. As a manifestation of that concept, this show unit design is highlighted by two major elements: wooden finishes and natural lighting. Enhanced with sleek furniture pieces and a calming neutral colour palette, this urban-meets-nature concept has helped to accentuate the beauty of its open space layout and architectural structure.

Nothing feels better than being greeted by a spacious living area balanced harmoniously with varying wood textures, which provide the backdrop for an easy-going and comfortable living environment for a relaxing time spent indoors. In order to add some excitement into the interior, blue accents are added into the living room through the application of soft furnishings and artworks. Meanwhile, the adjacent dining area features a tasteful selection of furniture along with a cosy lounge area decorated with indoor plant features, transforming it into a stylish yet rejuvenating spot.

In true urban spirit, the kitchen space is beautifully decorated with an obsidian backsplash that is contrasted by the off white cabinet surfaces to produce the ideal image of a trendy yet functional kitchen that would appeal to modern property purchasers. Putting practicality first while illustrating the full potential of this show unit, the interior spaces been optimised to include dedicated work and study areas at the common area and the master bedroom. In the meantime, each of the three bedrooms have been distinctively personalised with a rustic feature wall made from refined nature-inspired finishes that inject warmth into the rooms.
